

in four countries, and three socioeconomic and cultural settings. Dr. Loewen will also examine the interaction of group members' conservative values with modern social realities such as urbanization, consumerism, farm mechanization, agricultural specialization, public education, mass media, and intrusive government policies. Dr. Loewen is committed to the use of comparative study to further the understanding of the diverse cultures of Canada and the United States. An understanding of how a single sub-ethnic group adapted to the different versions of the urban, industrial society in Canada and the U.S. can illuminate the social and cultural nature of the two countries.

Chad Gaffield, professor of history and vice-dean of the School of Graduate Studies and Research, received the 1995 University of Ottawa Award for Excellence in Research. Dr. Gaffield's research focuses on the social history of 19th and 20th-century Canada, and on questions of theory and method in historical research. He has published many books and scholarly articles dealing with the history of education, demographic and family change, the regional history of Vancouver Island and of the Ottawa Valley, and with computerization. Guest lecturer at universities throughout Canada, as well as in the United States, France and Germany, he taught at McGill and at the University of Victoria before joining the University of Ottawa in 1985. He has won the Certificate of Merit of the Canadian Historical Association, the Minnesota Historical Society Award for Excellence in Post-Secondary Teaching, and the Riddell Award of the Ontario Historical Society. As part of the Board of the Historical Atlas of Canada, he has won the Centenary Medal of the Royal Society of Canada, the Gold Medal of the Royal Geographic Society, and the Award of Distinction of the Canadian Historical Association.

The 8th Annual meeting of the New England Museum Association and the Old Sturbridge Village Museum Archives Institute will be held at Old Sturbridge Village, Sturbridge, Massachusetts, on April 21-22 and will include both introductory and special topic programs. The introductory program is designed for the beginning archivist who works in a museum or historical society and will offer a variety of comprehensive and in-depth sessions focused on basic archival theories and practices. This year's curriculum includes such topics as reference and access, audio-visual collections, electronic records, automation, and photographs. Participants may choose to attend either of two sessions being offered concurrently, Arrangement & Description or Records Management & Appraisal. Instead of the introductory program, participants may select the special topic program. This session provides the experienced archivist with the opportunity to keep abreast of current archival issues and theories. The 1995 special topic will focus on security for museum archives. For information, contact Theresa Rini Percy, Associate Director of Research, Library, and Collections, Research Library, Old Sturbridge Village, One Old Sturbridge Village Road, Sturbridge, MA 01566. (508) 347-3362 ext. 203. TDD/TTY: (508) 347-5383. Fax: (508) 347-5375.

Colloque culturel irlandais, Louisbourg, Cap-Breton (N.-É.), du 11 au 13 août 1995. Dans le cadre des manifestations commémoratives prévues à Louisbourg en 1995, le lieu historique national de la Forteresse de Louisbourg et le University College of Cape Breton parrainent le Colloque culturel irlandais. Il est prévu au programme un certain nombre d'exposés sur l'histoire des Irlandais au Cap-Breton, mais on aimerait que le colloque porte sur tous les aspects des études irlandaises. Outre le colloque, il y aura également un grand rassemblement des Irlandais de Old Town et de West Louisbourg. La présente demande invite les historiens, les géographes, les archéologues, les cartographes, les spécialistes en littérature et autres spécialistes intéressés à soumettre des projets de communications ou des séances entières d'information. Tout projet doit comprendre un résumé d'une page de la communication proposée et un bref curriculum vitae de l'auteur. Prière d'envoyer les projets à Kenneth Donovan, Lieu historique national de la Forteresse de Louisbourg, C.P. 160, Louisbourg (Nouvelle-Écosse) B0A 1M0. Tél. (902) 733-2280. The Irish Cultural Symposium, Louisbourg, Cape Breton, N.S., 11 - 13 August 1995. As part of the commemorative events planned for Louisbourg in 1995, the Fortress of Louisbourg and the University College of Cape Breton will sponsor an Irish Cultural Symposium on 11-13 August 1995. There will be a number of papers delivered on the Irish in Cape Breton, but the symposium will cover all areas of Irish Studies. In conjunction with the Symposium there will also be a reunion of the Irish of Old Town and West Louisbourg. Historians, geographers, archaeologists, cartographers, literary specialists and others are invited to submit proposals for papers or entire sessions. Proposals should include a one-page Abstract of the proposed paper and a brief curriculum vitae of the author. Send proposals to Kenneth Donovan, Fortress of Louisbourg N.H.S., P.O. Box 160, Louisbourg, Nova Scotia B0A 1M0. Phone: (902) 733-2280; Fax: (902) 733-2362.

"Media Policy, National Identity and Citizenry in Changing Democratic Societies; the Case of Canada". October 6-7, 1995 at the Canadian Studies Center, Duke University, Durham NC USA. This conference will seek alternatives to communication policies that are intended to build and reinforce national culture. This is urgent when new technologies thwart monopolization of domestic supplies of popular culture and the state is committed to democracy and multiculturalism. The focus on Canada exemplifies situations and issues that pertain to many of the world's countries. For further information contact Dr. Patrice LeClerc, Canadian Studies Center, Box 90422, Durham, North Carolina 27708-0422. Phone: (919) 684-4260; Fax: (919) 681-7882 or E-mail: DECLERC@ACPub.DUKE.EDU.

The Department of History at the University of Regina is pleased to host Symbols, Myths and Images of the French Revolution: A colloquium in Honour of James A. Leith, 18-21 September 1996. James A. Leith, FRSC, will be retiring from Queen's University, Kingston, in 1997, after more than three decades as a leading historian of revolutionary France. Professor Leith, who began his teaching career in Saskatchewan, was one of the first scholars to embark upon the study of the visual imagery and symbolism of the French Revolution. More recently, he has helped to open up research into the Revolution's architectural projects. The purpose of this conference is to honour the contribution made by Professor Leith to our understanding of the French Revolution by bringing together historians from around the world, representing diverse fields of enquiry and schools of interpretation. It is anticipated that the publication of the conference proceedings will represent a significant and lasting contribution to scholarship.

Papers are solicited from historians of the culture and political culture of the Revolution, as well as from those interested in the Revolution's political and social dimensions. Principal speakers include: Lynn Hunt, Colin Jones, Emmet Kennedy, Claude Langlois, Noel Parker, Rolf Reichardt, Uldolpho van de Sandt. Proposals should include the title of the paper, a brief summary of its major theme, and a brief curriculum vitae of the author. Deadline for proposals is July 1, 1995. Please send paper proposals to Ian Germani, Associate Professor, Department of History, University of Regina, Regina SK S4S 0A2. Tel: (306) 585-4216; Fax: (306) 585-4780.
